

General Project 6—Stamping Die Project/Frank Warrick

No explanation came with these digital photos. Frank Warrick of Muskegon Heights, Michigan dropped off a diskette at the 1999 N.A.M.E.S. show and said “Here's a project I built.” Once you see the pictures, though, not too much is needed to see it is a nice little project. It is a stamping die that punches out what appear to be small, thin washers. Frank also entered a very nice steel sine plate in Sherline’s contest.

The finished project is shown under a protective glass dome. Some sample parts lie in front of press inside the cover.
